

OUR STORY

This page is supposed to be our story, but who's got the time to read all the way to the bottom? So here's the short version of how The Office came to be. In 2010, we set out to open the kind of bar that we wanted to hang out in. It would have lots on tap, great mixed drinks, hand pressed burger patties, and trivia on Thursday nights. And here you sit, so we must have come pretty close to the mark. Thanks for choosing to hang out here as well.

The long version of how we started The Office goes back to 2010. Matt, who owns a sandwich shop in West Seattle, turned to his friend Travis, who was kind of bored at the time, and said, "Want to open a bar?" And Travis said, "Sure. That sounds fun." And so the two of them opened The Office. Uh-oh. The long version of our story ended up shorter than the short version. Some other stuff probably happened in there too. We had to pick a name, of course. We called it The Office, which you probably saw. So there's that. We thought it was important to make as much of the food from scratch as possible. We make our onion rings from scratch. Our mac and cheese. Our sauces. OK, now I'm just listing things. Are you really still reading? Kind of a bookworm, aren't you? About now your friends are probably wondering what you're reading. Tell them that this building was a brothel a hundred years ago. It's probably not true. But it will distract them while you finish reading. Anyway. You read to the bottom of the page. Congrats. Time for a drink.

Having a special event or large party? From birthday parties to business lunches look to The Office!
